

This painting of Russian Icons has been done in a modern workshop on the remote Kizhi Island far in the north of Russia where traditional crafts are still done to this day and works such as these are regularly produced.