'A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in a setting of silver.'

Proverbs 25:11

After living a full and eventful life the Duke of Wellington, the man who defeated Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo, was asked if he was to live his life again would he do anything differently. He thought for a moment and then replied, "I would give more praise". We all appreciate encouragement. It feeds us and inspires us, it builds our confidence and can lead us onto even greater things. I'm sure we can all recall moments where we have been encouraged by the words of others and the way that made us feel.

The UEFA President, Aleksander Čeferin acknowledges its impact upon the performance of players in the current Euro 2020 tournament and listening to the volume of the cheering support that the reduced capacity crowds are making in the stadiums, it's easy to see why.

The Bible is full of words of encouragement to us that we might live our lives in a way that makes a difference to those around us and the readings over the next two weeks express this in different ways. The psalmists encourage us to look to God for help and guidance, Herod is being encouraged to alter his behaviour, St Paul in his letters encourages us in the truth of God's love for us and Jesus encourages his disciples to experience the thrill of living their lives with God by sending them out to do as he has been doing. He doesn't send them unequipped as we're told he gives them 'authority' but it's interesting to note what he insists that they do not take with them. No food, no money, no bag and no extra clothing.

The intention is that they might become fully reliant upon God himself to supply their needs in order that they can see and know the power of God at work in their lives for themselves. Experiencing the reality of living our lives with altered circumstances as we are all having to do in these days, creates an opportunity for us to examine what is truly important to us and to see and experience afresh the blessings of God. I encourage you to look with new eyes to the life giving words of God in scripture that are there to encourage us, guide us and empower us. For they are precious indeed.

Rev Dave.

Funeral Notice

Our dear friend Ann Peacock died on June 27th. The funeral will be held at St Margaret's church on Saturday July 3rd at 4.15. As a valued member of the church family and of the chapel in Gayle, it would be lovely to celebrate and give thanks for her life together. If you are attending the funeral please give yourself time to sign in and remember to wear a face covering

Blessing the future ...

Today

Very few of us like to think of a time when we will no longer be here but the truth is that today we are and one day we will not be. In Christ we have a wonderful future to look forward to, so there is nothing to be fearful of; 'Death where is thy sting?' <sup>1 Cor.15:55</sup>

For nearly 500 years the Church of England has encouraged us to make a will in order to ensure that our wishes might be carried out after our death, bringing peace of mind to family and friends and to ourselves in knowing that we can continue to support the people and the causes that we love.

Beyond our regular lifetime giving a gift in our will can be a final and powerful thanksgiving towards God and can help transform the future and the mission of the local church where we live. It could be a gift left for the PCC to decide where it might best be used or you could request it to help a particular cause close to your own heart.
